The film crew is in France a few kilometres from Lyons. They stop at a motorway service area.

Nat: "Here is the film crew. Alan the cameraman."

Alan: "Hello!"

Nat: "Isabelle the journalist!"

Isabelle: "Hello!"

Nat: "Michael the soundman."

Michael: "Hello."

Nat: "And me - Nathalie the director. We're going to the Cité Internationale Hotel in Lyons."

Nat: "Here is the map. We are here at the rest area, at the Dardilly motorway services. The hotel... "

But finding the hotel is proving difficult. So I'm going to phone for directions.

Nat: "Hello, we are at the Dardilly rest area, can you give me directions to your hotel please?"

Yes, I'm writing it down. Follow signs for 'Lyon centre', OK, take the Fourvière Tunnel.

Yes, yes, yes. Continue alongside the Rhône, the Rhône. Cross the Winston Churchill Bridge, OK, very good. And it's signposted, Cité Internationale. OK, thanks a lot, see you in a bit."

On the way to the Cité Internationale Hotel.

Isabelle: "Ok, follow Lyons Centre."

Michael: "Yes."

Isabelle: "There we are. Take the Fourvière tunnel."

Michael: "OK."

Isabelle: "That's it, very good."

For the moment everything is going well. But the directions are complicated.

Michael: "Go right."

Isabelle: "No it is straight ahead."

Michael: "Oh sorry!"

Isabelle: "Hold on, I'm going to ask."

Michael: "OK."

Isabelle: "Hello sir."

Passer-by: "Hello!"

Isabelle: "Excuse me do you know where the Cité Internationale is please?"

Passer-by: "Right the Cité Internationale... yes, go straight ahead, turn left at the traffic lights, cross over Winston Churchill Bridge, and follow the signs for 'Cité Internationale'."

Isabelle: "Thank you!"

Passer-by: "Not at all, goodbye."

Nat: "Look, the hotel is actually opposite."

Michael: "Oh yes! That's the hotel opposite us."

Isabelle: "Oh perfect! There, the Cité Internationale... to the right."

Michael: "Oh la la!"

Isabelle: "Good and after the lights it's left."

Michael: "Oh yes! Oh it's here!"

Isabelle: "It's easy eh?"

Michael: "Yes."
