

Shopping: video B

Ariane and Michel Jourde do their shopping at the market every Saturday morning. But Hakim M'Barek - he goes to the supermarket to do his weekly shopping.

Nat: "Do you prefer the market or the supermarket?"

Ariane: "Overall, we prefer the market."

Nat: "Why?"

Ariane: "There is a special atmosphere at the market."

Michel: "The produce is fresher."

Ariane: "It is very friendly."

Hakim: "I prefer the supermarket."

Nat: "And why?"

Hakim: "... Because you can get more things. It's less expensive."

Nat: "So, what do you buy at the market and what do you buy at the supermarket?"

Ariane: "We buy mainly fresh produce, that's vegetables, fruit and sometimes, as you can see, a little bit of sausage or a piece of cheese, something like that at the weekend from the market."

Hakim: "Well at the supermarket, apart from food, I buy all my household and cleaning products, but also other things for the house, ... for example plates, glasses, things like that."

Nat: "What produce do you always buy from the market?"

Ariane: "I would say fruit... I would never buy them from the supermarket."

Michel: "Lettuce as well. We eat a lot a lot of salad, so every week we buy a lettuce from the market."

Hakim: "At the supermarket, I always buy my 6 packs of bottled water, and also my packs of milk cartons. And my boxes of pasta and also my tinned food."

Nat: "Apart from food, what do you buy at the market?"

Ariane: "Apart from food? Not much... flowers maybe... that's it."

Hakim: "... I usually fill my car up with petrol at the supermarket. At the petrol stations next to the supermarket."

Nat: "And why?"

Hakim: "Because it is a lot cheaper."
